MINERS MASS MEETING.

Trades Assembly Hall Crowded
Yesterday Afternoon.

NO COAL CONTRACTS TO BE FILLED

By Union Miners until the Strike is Won—Committees Appointed to Wait on Local Operators—All Out Again at Elm Grove.

A largely attended meeting of miners was held in Trades Assembly hall yesterday afternoon from 1:30 to 5 o'clock. The crowd present was so large that many had to sit along on the edges of the platform or stand up. All the local mines were represented, including Mountaineer, Glendale, Benwood and Elm Grove. Reports of a very encouraging nature were made by representatives of several places, and all these speeches and reports were received with vociferous applause. This was especially true when a delegate from Elm Grove informed the meeting that all the miners there had again come out.

A message was received from Monongah, saying all the miners there had struck against the proposed reduction from 45 and 25 cents to 40 and 20 cents. This was said to include all the mines along the river, both above and below Monongah, and it was prophesied that all would hold out, and that no coal would be mined there after yesterday.

The main question before the meeting was whether to allow a few "pooling" mine operators to dig coal to fill existing contracts, and it was unanimously resolved to stop all work, regardless of contracts.

A committee was appointed to act with the arbitrator of the Trades Assembly and call on Yocum Bros., who have, it is alleged, been selling coal contrary to the rules of the union. A committee was also appointed to call on the Brooks Co-operative mine company, in the Eighth ward, and on Bell Bros.

Several labor leaders outside of the ranks of the miners were present and gave the boys encouraging words, which were enthusiastically received.

The Elma-Standard miners at Elma-ville did not take out their tools yesterday as ordered by the operators. They declined to do so.

AFTER WEST VIRGINIA COAL.

Dealers From the East Flocking Here For Their Coal.

It is already evident that West Virginia is considered the weak spot of the great coal miners' strike, and in consequence numbers of coal dealers from other sections, mostly easterners, are flocking to West Virginia in an endeavor to make contracts for coal. Within the past week several have been at the McLure, and nearly all went to the interior of the state, and have succeeded in getting at least a partial supply of coal. The latest arrival here is Mr. F. A. Mizener, who comes from Erie, Pa., whose supply of coal usually, of course, comes from the Pennsylvania fields.

Coal at the Bellaire Works. The miners at the mill bank on Indian run were not working to-day on account of the steel works being off, but will resume to-morrow, says yesterday's Bellevue Independent. In talking to one of the miners he said they had a contract with the steel company to work up until July, and that in the agreement it was stipulated that when wages went up their wages would be advanced. There are about forty-five miners and haulers employed at the mine.

WELL KNOWN IN WHEELING.

A Negro Frate Who is Threatened With Lynching.

Telegrams from Staunton, Va., give accounts of the horrible crime of a colored blacksmith near there: "Charles Bradford was escorting Lottie Rowe home from a dance early yesterday morning when they were met at the side of a deep railroad cut by Lawrence Spiller (colored). Spiller is a powerful blacksmith, more than six feet high and weighing about 240 pounds. He knocked Bradford senseless with a bludgeon and hurled his body down the side of the railroad cut. Then he took the girl to a field. When Bradford recovered consciousness he ran to the home of the girl's uncle, where the dance had been held, and gave the alarm. The girl's mutilated body was found on the railroad track just before a belated train went by. After accomplishing his purpose, Spiller had beaten the girl's head into a jelly and lacerated her limbs with the bludgeon. Spiller was tracked to his cabin by officers who arrested him and found a negro woman in the act of burning his bloody clothes. An inquest resulted in Spiller being held and a special grand jury will take up the case to-day.

"Lynching was considered, and Clinton Forge people telegraphed: 'If you need any force to take the negro we can furnish 200 men.' Judge Chalkley accordingly put a posse of 150 men at the sheriff's disposal and ordered the West Augusta Guards on duty for the night.

"It seems that Spiller had been at the dance playing cards and drinking whisky with the father of his victim. The crime was committed within five minutes' walk of the girl's home. In the field was found her hat and the bludgeon.

Many Wheeling people recalled Spiller very well. He once served a term of six years in the Mountaineer penitentiary, and when his time was out he came here, and was given employment in the Bodley wagon works as a blacksmith. He was a powerful, huge negro, and while here his general public reputation was good, because he was on his good behavior, but there were those who knew him for what he was. He always went armed, and was a passionate, dangerous man. When the Messrs. Bodley went to Staunton they took Spiller with them, and he has been there ever since. When he was here his name was pronounced 'Spiller.'

It is said Spiller's home was originally in Clarkburg, and that while there he cut a man so badly that he died, and that he was never punished for that crime. He has a daughter at Piedmont.

NO USE FOR DOCTORS.

The Death of George Ferguson Yesterday.
Inquest on the Body.

Squire Schultz was called on yesterday morning to hold an inquest over the body of George Ferguson, a butcher, No. 36 Twenty-sixth street, who had died at 1:45 o'clock a. m. Mr. Ferguson has been in bad health for over a year, but his illness was not of a character that imposed upon him confinement to the house. Last Thursday, however, he contracted a severe cold, and he was finally compelled to take to his bed. He had a singular antipathy towards physicians, and repulsed all suggestions of medical treatment, and as a consequence he breathed his last at the hour stated above.

The inquest was merely a matter of form, and the verdict rendered was that the deceased came to his death from natural causes, his ailment being pneumonia.

Mr. Ferguson was well and favorably known on the South Side, and was a man of marked peculiarities. In conversation one day with a friend about physicians he remarked that he was one of them.

"Why, how's that?" asked his friend.

"Well, I kill for the people and the doctors kill for the undertaker."

AN AGED WOMAN MISSING.

She Left her Home at 3 o'clock Yesterday and did not Return.

Last night the police were informed that Mrs. Ann Maggia, a feeble woman aged seventy-eight, had been missing since 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and her two daughters were naturally very uneasy about her. Up to 11 o'clock last night no tidings of her had been received. Here two daughters are Mrs. Duckwood and Mrs. Smallstick. She left the home of one to go to that of the other, and has not since been seen by either. As she was very old and feeble it is feared that she wandered about until she became bewildered, and possibly fell in the creek, or in some unfrequented spot where she would not be found.

Still Alarm Last Evening.

A still alarm to the Atlantic engine house at 7 o'clock last evening called the engine to Alley 14. Tom Hercules's house east of Woods street, was the scene of the blaze, which scorched a stairway somewhat. It was put out without serious damage, however.
